L200

THE PRINCE OF PICK-UPS

THE INTELLIGENT MOTION GENE

Mitsubishi has long been known as the clever car company: a pioneer who is quietly responsible for numerous important automotive innovations, ranging from the four-wheel drive technology which effectively sired the SUV, now one of the world's favourite classes, to the world's first, and best selling, SUV plug-in hybrid electric vehicle.

With the L200, Mitsubishi is almost single-handedly responsible for the growth of the pick-up market in Europe, collecting every major accolade over the years, many of them multiple times. And now, from the genes of generations of leaders, emerges one which may well be the greatest of them all.

"A dynasty of go-anywhere, utterly versatile pick-ups has developed into a fifth generation that has the opposition reeling." Daily Record

"The well thought out, classy L200 has once more raised the bar in the pick-up sector and is a worthy winner of our LCV of the year for 2016." What Van?

"The L200 is a jack of all trades, but it's mastered one: being a brilliant pick-up." Auto Express

WHO NEEDS A PICK UP?

Eleven years ago the Mitsubishi L200 launched a bloodless revolution in European motoring.

Higher specification models of its predecessor had introduced a rather American concept, that of combining work and play in what had traditionally been a pure work vehicle, but the 2006 L200 brought to market a true, crossover breed, sport utility truck. A truck which really did combine performance, manoeuvrability, safety, off-road performance and cabin space with genuine packhorse load-lugging capacity. And it opened up a whole new world of possibilities.

Now, you can run your pick-up to the building site, the beach, or the bar. And the pick-up most at home wherever you go is the Mitsubishi L200.

“Now with tough looks to match its admirable on and off-road performance, the L200 looks set to maintain its place at the head of the 4x4 truck table for a good many years yet.” Commercial Fleet

EVOLUTION, NOT REVOLUTION

At first glance, this fifth generation L200 appears more evolution than revolution but, whilst its DNA is undeniable, in reality it is all new.

It's sleek and muscular enough to reap plenty of street cred, yet it is smoother, quieter, roomier, more sophisticated, more comfortable and even more aerodynamic than its predecessors. It has a new engine, new suspension, new steering and new transmission, both manual and automatic, and that's just the start.

Of course, the sleek shape of the new L200 isn't designed simply to be easy on the eye, it's actually designed to make it one of the most aerodynamically efficient pick-ups you can buy. Some day all trucks will be built like this.

CHANGES
SERIES 4 TO SERIES 5 L200

"The ride is noticeably more composed than we've been used to in UK market pick-ups. There's still a loud growl under throttle but it suits the L200's character, you wouldn't really want your pick-up truck whispering away like a luxury saloon." Auto Express

"That's the mythical official test figure, but we got close to that on our test." Daily Mirror.

A TRUCK TO TAME TARMAC

In the latest L200 aerodynamic excellence combines with a new, all-aluminium 2.4 litre diesel MIVEC* engine to return both exceptional performance and outstanding fuel economy. On 4Life models, Auto Stop & Go further aids both fuel consumption and emissions, whilst the highly responsive compact turbocharger endows Titan, Warrior and Barbarian models with an impressive 181 PS output. This enables you to power up to 62mph in just 10.4 seconds, maintain that speed at barely 2000rpm, and still have plenty of torque to call on when you need it.

Quiet, smooth, refined and incredibly responsive, the engine's exceptional torque characteristics are matched by a new six-speed manual transmission with a light and fluid shift action. Warrior and Barbarian derivatives offer the option of a five-speed automatic with Sports Mode manual facility and paddle shift.

Add to the mix a revised suspension set up which ensures that the L200 rides more like an SUV than an LCV, feeling composed and settled around bends and over potholes. This is a highlight which is matched by the steering: light at low speeds, and with considerably reduced lock-to-lock revolutions, it emphasises the L200's extreme manoeuvrability, and with a turning circle of just 11.8m no pick-up can beat it; indeed, it's better even than some small cars.

A MASTERCLASS IN OFF-ROAD EFFECTIVENESS

Off-road, it's simply no contest. With its smooth torque delivery (an impressive 317 lb.ft. at just 2500rpm*) that quiet, economical engine, notable on-road, is equally suited to tougher work. It powers through mud, slush, snow and sand as effectively as it attacks the asphalt, whilst the new suspension set up skilfully irons out deeper bumps.

Traction is never in question. The Easy Select system in operation on 4Life models features a heavy duty rear differential lock to provide extra traction for when the going goes beyond tough, whilst, even after all these years, the L200 Titan, Warrior and Barbarian models remain unusual in enabling on-road driving in the dry with either two- or four-wheels engaged. This renowned Super Select system, borrowed from the iconic Shogun, provides the option of extra grip whenever you need it: when towing, for example. In fact, the L200 is something of a towing supremo. With a braked capacity of 3100kg and a total load capacity (the maximum total weight which can be carried in the load bed whilst towing) of 4090kg, the Double Cab model is the browniest packhorse in the bunch.

For all pick-up vehicles the total load capacity will be reduced when taking into account a tow bar and additional equipment

The L200 is spider-like over the steepest terrain, climbing seemingly impossible angles with ease. Despite boasting one of the best approach angles in its class, the pick-up has an extended front overhang which prevents water from splashing up and impairing visibility, even when traversing water at relatively high speeds..

“Last, but not least, the L200 is also extremely capable off-road, with four-wheel drive engaged simply by turning a rotary control between the front seats.” Auto Trader

“More than plush enough for a vehicle that is likely to lead a hard life.” Daily Mirror

PICK OF THE PICK-UPS INSIDE

You might choose this pick-up for its ride alone; but then again, you might pick it for its class.

A perfect balance between practical, durable materials and ‘car-like’ refinement, its list of standard kit reads more like that of a top-end saloon: central locking with keyless entry, tactile leather on the height and reach adjustable steering wheel and gearshift knob which complements the leather seats in Warrior and Barbarian models, electric windows to both front and rear, electric heated door mirrors for optimum vision under all conditions, and air conditioning of course – climate control with dual zone facilities providing separate settings for driver and front passenger. It even includes privacy glass, cruise control, luxury details like rain and dusk sensors, a Bluetooth® hands free ‘phone connection, and good sound systems with steering wheel remote control as standard, as well as a touch screen satellite navigation system on the Warrior and Barbarian*.

*Specifications vary by model – please refer to pages 28-30 for full details.

“The cabin offers plenty of head and shoulder room and is tastefully finished with the Warrior and Barbarian versions getting leather trimmings and seats.” What Van?

NOW YOU'RE SITTING COMFORTABLY

Maximising space has always been a Mitsubishi strong point and, despite its relatively compact size, the last L200's cabin provided better legroom than any other cab in the class; well, this one is even bigger.

The seats are even better too; much, much better. Drivers will find their position very car-like, sitting down snugly in the seats instead of the traditional pick-up perch. Double Cab rear seat passengers are cosseted with a 25° reclined seat-back and good headroom, making this their pick of the pick-ups too, and everyone benefits from the excellent sound insulation: combined with the naturally quiet engine, this latest L200 cruises more than 2dB more quietly than its peers.

“If you’re looking for a pick-up to use as a working vehicle then the L200 is a great candidate. It’s good value, practical, easy to drive, comparatively comfortable and better than its rivals in many areas. It’s also a considerable improvement over its predecessor.” Autocar

A WINNING FORMULA

The L200 is a winner all round, and it will keep you safe at all times too.

The very first pick-up to feature a traction control system, this active safety feature works alongside technical innovations like ABS with EBD (which adjusts the level of braking power applied between the front and rear wheels, depending upon the load), Brake Assist (power assistance for the pedal under emergency braking), an Emergency Stop signal System which automatically alerts other drivers to a hazardous situation, and Trailer Stability Assist for safer towing.

Features like the Lane Departure Warning system, Hill Start Assist and the Bi-Xenon headlamps which turn night into day, also make the L200 both safer and easier to drive. But, should the worst happen and you come closer than is desirable to another solid object, you'll find the L200's ultra-tough body and multiple airbags a safe place to be*.

*Specifications vary by model – please refer to pages 28-30 for full details.

“With all the on-paper advantages, such as the excellent economy and emissions, and great-value package of equipment, any current pick-up owner will find it a no-brainer to pick this as their next vehicle.” Auto Trader

"The tools of my trade are a laptop, pen and a notebook. And a brain jammed full of statistics, like the time the last Triumph Spitfire rolled off the line (August 1980) and whether a limited-slip differential is an option on a Porsche Cayman or not (it is).

A roofing contractor, on the other hand, has all sorts of gear including a great big pot to melt tar in. He needs a pick-up truck. I don't.

But last week I had one – a new Mitsubishi L200 Barbarian. And now it's gone, I miss it badly." Colin Goodwin, Daily Mirror
