

MICRA

Introduction

The more time you spend in a Micra, the more you'll love it.

Its distinctive shape and good looks give it instant charisma and its surprisingly big-hearted interior always welcomes company, with enough room for you and 3 friends.

Inside, it makes sure that you feel at home, with little luxuries like an RDS-equipped security-coded stereo radio/cassette, which on some models has 6 speakers.

But it's on the move that the Micra really shines – borrowing some of the family traits which make its bigger brothers, the Primera and 200SX, so highly acclaimed.

Its handling and performance are superb on both city and open roads, with fuel-efficient 1.0 or 1.3 litre twin-cam 16-valve engines giving spontaneity even at low speeds. Parking's easy with its compact size letting you slot into spaces you'd normally drive straight past.

And your Micra will always look out for you, with an award winning immobiliser, side impact door bars and seat-belt pretensioners as standard as well as driver's airbag available on many models.

Make friends with Micra and you'll soon see why people get so possessive about this little car.

So remember the ads. Ask before you borrow it.

As you look around you're convinced that the salesman must have made a mistake.

Body coloured bumpers. 16-valve engine. Full wheel covers. RDS stereo radio/cassette.

Internally adjustable door mirrors. Tilt adjustable steering. Height adjustable seat-belts.

Digital clock. Plus the information card says that it comes with either

3 or 5-door and the option of N-CVT and a driver's airbag.

It's all very attractive, but you asked to see the basic model.

He's obviously sat you in one far higher up the range. Wrong.

Sporty. Trendy. Energetic. Colour co-ordinated. Fun to be with.

All words which perfectly describe the Micra S, but all of which could equally be applied to your own personality.

So it's little wonder that it fits in so well with your lifestyle. It matches your image.

In fact, if it wasn't your car, it could be your best friend.

Better still, the Micra's award-winning immobiliser makes sure that no matter how much attention it receives from admirers, you don't have to worry.

It'll always remain loyal to you.

Passion

It's a moment you'll never forget – your first taste of unadulterated desire. Pure passion.

Here you are, walking to work, past a row of cars which are stopped at the lights. You notice a shiny black hatchback, window down, driver enjoying the sun.

But as you get nearer, your glance turns into a stare.

Your eyes widen and there's a funny feeling in your stomach – like going over a hump-backed bridge.

Gorgeous. Absolutely gorgeous.

You're an adult, but it seems that today, someone forgot to inform your brain. Gooey-eyed, you're thinking like a love-struck teenager, "This is it. This is the one."

Then the lights change, the traffic starts to move and the black car is gone.

Your heart sinks. What if you never meet again?
Maybe if you're here at the same time tomorrow?

But then logic returns. "Get a grip. It's only a car."

Hurrying along the rain-soaked pavements, you head for the car, its metallic paint shining under the street light.

A turn of the key and all the doors 'click' open, letting you and your partner get in the front, while the kids hop in the back.

Dry at last, you relax for a moment in your luxurious surroundings, before adjusting the seat, steering wheel and mirrors to suit your driving position.

You were driven into town, so it's your turn to drive back. And about time. Your partner's been hogging the car for the last few days. Flicking on the radio, the RDS finds a traffic announcement.

Great. Sounds like it should be a good run home.

A glance at its exterior gives you a hint as to this car's energetic nature – 3 doors, front spoiler and side skirts sitting the car low on the road and alloy wheels with wide tyres sticking it to the tarmac.

Inside there are clues too. The seats give extra support and as you turn the key, a needle springs to life on the tachometer.

But pulling away, you're left in no doubt – despite its unimposing size, this car's got muscle.

Its 1.3 litre 16-valve engine makes it quick off the mark and its pin-sharp handling lets it turn on a sixpence.

Fun with a capital 'F'.

You're a lover of the finer things in life.

An evening in with Mozart, Shakespeare and a box of Belgian chocolates. An evening out at the theatre, followed by a quiet table for two in a French restaurant.

And the Micra SLX – a car as generous on interior space as it is on refinement. Power-assisted steering comes as standard, as does luxury velour seating, electric front windows, and a 6-speaker RDS stereo radio/cassette with auto-reverse.

Plenty for the connoisseur to appreciate.

N-CVT

Press the clutch. Brake. Wait. Accelerate and release the clutch. Move a few feet. Press the clutch.

Brake. Wait...

Driving in busy city traffic can be at best, monotonous and at worst extremely tiring.

But it needn't be, with the Micra's N-CVT (Nissan Continuously Variable Transmission).

Like an automatic gearbox, N-CVT lets you go from A to B with the minimum amount of effort.

But that's the only similarity.

N-CVT is far smoother, with the sensation of a constant build up in your acceleration, rather than a series of steps and surges.

It still lets you get the maximum enjoyment out of driving, as there is virtually no delay in the engine's response when you press the accelerator.

Unlike conventional automatics, the car does not creep when you take your foot off the brake. Instead, the transmission is disengaged, preventing the car from rolling backwards or forwards.*

And N-CVT doesn't gulp petrol. The same on-board computer which controls the transmission also maximises the car's fuel economy.

Total motoring enjoyment. It's what we aim to provide for every single Nissan customer.

And this has meant expanding on our company philosophy of manufacturing a range of cars which feel great to drive, taking it beyond the car plant and even the forecourt.

To this end, we've put together an extensive range of services which we think caters for every aspect of obtaining and running a Nissan on a day to day basis - from flexible finance to drive it away, to Accident Management which can help you with insurance claims and repairs in the unlikely event of a knock.

And of course, all this is backed up by a continued investment in our ever-growing dealer network, which provides not only a friendly local contact, but a level of after-sales service unrivalled in the industry.

So whether you're a private customer or the Fleet Manager of a large company, it's reassuring to know that when you decide on a Nissan, you choose a car which will not only be a pleasure to drive, but a pleasure to own.

Nissan Assure includes all of the following benefits - some of which may be the reasons why you chose your Nissan in the first place.

Three year or 60,000 miles manufacturer's warranty.

Six years anti-rust warranty and first 3 years paint warranty.

Free roadside assistance for the first year of your vehicle's life - this is increased to three years if you choose a Nissan QX.

Accident Management - a scheme which helps you, in the unlikely event of an accident, to deal with insurance companies and to organise the repairs.
